

I oppose the weakening of Indiana's Telephone Privacy Law by allowing banks and other institutions to call their customers as much as they want. This law has worked great for the citizens of Indiana, and these institutions have other ways to market their products and services which are not intrusive.